

Always reliably on the move

Stainless steel rope blocks

for heavy loads and harsh conditions

Whether exposed to high mechanical stress, aggressive environments, or special hygiene requirements:

stainless steel blocks excel wherever uncompromising material quality is required.

Made of AISI 304 stainless steel, they are corrosion-resistant, durable, and low-maintenance – ideal for use in demanding environments, even at extreme temperatures or in continuous operation. Depending on the design, some blocks offer additional advantages such as maintenance-friendly, replaceable rollers or versions with multiple sheaves for complex applications.

Team MT in focus – Dennis Spizin

Dennis Spizin has been a permanent member of the D-A-CH team since the beginning of the year, successfully serving customers across much of Germany. With athletic ambition and extensive previous experience, he has gradually settled into his new role – the start was challenging, but not a hurdle. In the current employee profile, he reveals the challenges he faced and which Marinetech products accompany him in his daily work.
